It’s been 40 years of looking forward at Minnesota Public Radio.

Minnesota Public Radio News and Public Insight Journalism

Our newswroom’s innovative approach to partnering with our audience, known as Public Insight Journalism (PIJ), has garnered international attention this year, as well as the inaugural Knight News Innovation Effory Award. At its heart is our Public Insight Network of citizen sources, which in 2007 grew to 20,000 regional members who have agreed to share their insights and knowledge on areas of specific expertise with MPR News. From a series on Minnesota high schools, to coverage of Minnesota’s Muslim community, to the I-35W bridge collapse, MPR is providing broader, deeper news coverage by tapping the collective knowledge of our community through PIJ. The model has been recognized as a potential antidote to the uniformity of consolidated media, MPR continues to respond as a primary source for vital information and cultural programming in the public interest.

In January 2007, our newly renovated, state-of-the-art St. Paul headquarters officially opened with an open house celebration for the public who helped create it. Our three services—News, Classical and The Current®—are now broadcasting digitally via HD Radio®, which allows them to add additional channels of service for those with HD radios. Our news channel is enriching its content by seeking newswroom and artistic expression is constrained by the uniformity of consolidated media, MPR continues to respond as a primary source for vital information and cultural programming in the public interest.

The Current®

In its third year, The Current is making waves on the air and among its listeners. The station created an interactive day of “Listener-controlled” programming called Radio Free Current, which was so successful it quickly became a weekly all-request show. The Current also launched its Song of the Day podcast, helping to drive MPR’s total podcast reach from 15,000 to nearly 200,000 downloads a month. Signature events like Rock the Cradle, Policy and a Pint, and our participation in the South by Southwest Music Festival saw marked growth. The Current continues to handcraft one of the finest music services in the country and attract a young median age to public radio for music and then to become more engaged in news. We were pleased to see that of the young people listening to The Current, nearly 60% have now chosen MPR News as their second favorite station.

Three years ago, to better serve a national audience and better reflect our place as the industry’s second largest producer of national programming, MPR founded American Public Media. Under the American Public Media Group banner, we now reach 15 million listeners with programs such as Marketplace, a Prairie Home Companion, Speaking of Faith and Weekend America on nearly 800 stations across the country. That continues a long tradition of embedding the ideas and talent of Midwesterners into the national agenda.

As we look to the future, your support will be more important than ever to meet our growing role as a primary source of information for our democracy; to invest in technology necessary to deliver that information in innovative ways; and to research and develop important new programs. As Thomas Jefferson said in a speech that rings to this day: “Whenever the people are well informed, and about the promise of the future. Thank you for your support.

William H. Kling, President.

During our 40-year history, Minnesota Public Radio has been honored to be welcomed into the homes and workplaces of our listeners through our radio broadcasts. As the world migrates toward the new tools of the Internet, iPods and wireless devices, we are grateful for the opportunity to enrich lives and enhance communities in new ways and places.

We deeply appreciate the generous support and trust we receive from our 95,000 members and donors. The fact that you feel strongly enough about the MPR service and mission to become a vital part of it speaks volumes about all we have accomplished together and about the promise of the future.

Thank you for your support.

William H. Kling, President.

“Minnesota Public Radio makes the Minnesota Orchestra’s music available for the widest audiences possible, in our state, across the U.S. and around the world. This kind of broad reach to a vast audience is invaluable to us.”

Consolidated Statement of Activities and Resulting Net Assets
Fiscal year ended June 30, 2007, with comparative totals for the fiscal year ended June 30, 2006
RESULTS FROM OPERATIONS
During the fiscal year ended June 30, 2007, the operating net assets of Minnesota Public Radio (American Public Media) increased $5.4 million, on total activity of $151.5 million, leaving an ending balance of $121.3 thousand in the Operating Fund. The Operating Fund is used to record the activities of day-to-day operations.

The largest source of revenue continues to be support from the public at 64% of total operating revenue. Specifically, the largest category within support from the public is individual gifts and membership which accounts for $12.5 million of support for the organization. Other support for the organization comes in the form of underwriting (both national and regional), grants from endowments, foundations, and businesses.

On the expense side, day-to-day ongoing operations account for 74% of total operating expenses, followed by administrative support at 14% and fundraising at 12%.

LONG-TERM SUPPORT
Rounding out the remaining net assets of the organization are funds intended for the long-term support of MPR/APM. This includes the Property Fund which is used for all land, buildings, building improvements, equipment, licenses, etc.; the Designated Fund which is used for various grants and bequests and Permanently Restricted Funds which are intended for specific purposes and are subject to donor-imposed restrictions. The total change in Long-Term Support held at MPR/APM was an increase of $1.7 million in the year ending June 30, 2007.

In addition to the Long-Term Support held at MPR/APM, there is also an earned endowment held by American Public Media Group for the benefit of MPR|APM. This endowment was created from proceeds of past successful business activities. The balance of the earned endowment held at American Public Media Group was $118 million as of June 30, 2007. This earned endowment, when combined with the permanent external endowments held at the Minnesota Community Foundation and The Oakleaf Endowment Trust, result in total endowments intended for the benefit of MPR|APM of $142.5 million as of June 30, 2007.
